ProHealth Pediatrician Pays It Forward in Ecuador

Dr. Michael Ronan of Baldwin Harbour Pediatrics spent 8 days in Ecuador in 2019, providing free medical care as part of a volunteer team.

The mission to Guayaquil, Ecuador was sponsored by “Healing the Children NJ”, a non-profit organization that provides free care and highly specialized care to children around the world who would not otherwise have access to that level of care.

The team included urologists, anesthesiologists, surgical techs and nurses enough to run three operating rooms for a week. They worked out of the largest children’s hospital in Ecuador with local attending physicians, residents and staff. The surgeons performed vital procedures on many grateful children. Dr. Ronan, as the trip pediatrician, was responsible for pre-op evaluations, post-operative recovery care and discharge care for each patient.

Dr. Ronan got a thank-you from the Consul General in Guayaquil: “You represent the best the United States has to offer and your mission has strengthened the relations and people-to-people ties between our two countries.”

From ProHealth Newsletter – April 2019

“The first day, we screened over 70 patients with congenital abnormalities and traumatic or past surgical problems,” Dr. Ronan says. “The surgeons operated on 34 children over the rest of the week. Everyone worked as hard as we had ever worked for a week straight, but the experience left us all smiling because we had been able to do some real good for these kids.”

“Working with such a group of dedicated volunteers across multiple fields in a place where this kind of care was so important to these patients, I found myself energized to return to my everyday job but also excited to return again to Ecuador on the next trip. It was a prime example of what amazing things can be accomplished when a group of people come together with the same goal – to provide excellent care to children.” -Michael Ronan M.D.
